Detoctives Hint that He Was Shot by Dovie Comstock Herself.

Important Developments Expected at To-Night's Inquest.

Gen. Meserole Visits Ills Son in Jall-Larbig's Body Burled.

The mysteriousness of the Brooklyn police and the reticence or District-Attorney Ridge way, taken in connection with numerous hints let fall by detectives working on the Mrs. Dovie Comstock's flat in Sackett street | 1ng. last Saturday night.

They all point to a different version of the shooting from that told by Mrs. Comstock and young Darwin Meserole at the Butter street station after the affray.

One theory is that Mrs. Comstock horself did the shooting, and that the story of the assault upon her by Larbig, and his subsequent at-tack upon Meserole, was invented by the pair to shield the woman, and to establish a case of shooting in self-letense

It is said by Meserole's friends that, he was never known to carry a revolver and was mild and peaceable in his disposition.

On the other hand Mrs. Constock is known to have been a woman of violent passions, and when Larbig came in after his return from the races Saturday night and charged her with treachery towards him she may have fired the shots berself

It is intimated that an insurance policy for 015,000 upon Larbig's life, made out in favor of Mrs. Comstock, was found in her room and is now in the hands of the District-Attorney, in addition to two other policies in which his wife was the beneficiary, and that this also may have furnished a motive for wishing to put him out of the way.

The other theory is that turbig and Moserole first began the row, and that in trying in to separate the men Mrs. Comstock received in the blows which blackoned her eyes.

It is argued that Larbig must have been b the apartment for some time provious to the shooting, for his coat was found tolded up and and his but lay on the plane.

According to Meserole and Mrs. Comstock Larbig did not come into the from room a all, but was admitted by the door at the back of the hall into the diving-room in the rear It was then that he first attacked Mrs. Com stock and chased her into the small bedroon adjoining, when Mescrole came to her assistance, revolver in hand, and fired point-blan
